Communications and content developer – an articulate, insightful communicator.

Who is Dharohar?

The world is a fascinating place, and we're curious explorers from birth, but we lose this along the way. We empower kids and adults to ask questions and examine their world more closely through workshops, exhibitions and play. We train volunteers from businesses work with students in schools and public spaces. This creates a double layered impact; shifting the mindsets of current and future parents (volunteers) whilst helping current students enjoy learning. You can read more about our programmes (which range from debating to scientific method).

What are we looking for?

We are looking for someone who can convey energy, create curiosity and inspire people. From writing newsletters to creating powerful social media content, we need someone who can share our vision with a broad range of audiences we need someone passionate about learning who can find, create and share great content to showcase our work and other ideas that build curiosity. If you love sharing stories and big ideas with all kinds of people, then this is the role for you.

What will you be responsible for?

Write and curate internal and external newsletters to showcase our values, vision and work
Create a powerful online presence for us to connect to students and volunteers
Create and share videos and images that capture the essence of our work
Develop strong communication skills within the team so all our content is of the highest quality

To succeed in this role,

You must have:

- Curiosity, with a love for the written word
- Strong oral and verbal communication skills, in English and Hindi
- An eye for detail
- The ability to work independently and take initiative

It would help if you:

- Were a voracious reader
- Can do serious work in a playful way
- Enjoy social media and relationship building
