Content and Training Developer - a reflector, simple-communicator who is passionate about writing and public speaking

Role Summary

Dharohar is looking for a passionate and creative individual to develop exciting, innovative content for our programmes, as well as engaging, training and inspiring volunteers so that each programme has maximum impact.

Key Responsibilities

The Content Developer and Trainer will be responsible for:

- Improving the quality of Dharohar programmes by creating new content, including:
    - Experiments and science exhibits
    - Activities and ideas for book club and debating
    - Thinking skills and puzzle activities
- Improving existing content
- Creating and maintaining resources
- Improving volunteer engagement and impact by, Developing and delivering volunteer training
    - Working with children
    - Building thinking skills and a curious mindset
    - Evaluating volunteer performance
    - Monitoring volunteer engagement

To succeed in this role, you must have

- Minimum undergraduate degree
- Passion for learning
- Strong interpersonal and communication skills
- Fluency in English and Hindi
- Demonstrable ability to work independently

It would help if you had

- Interest in and knowledge of science and technology
- Experience of training adults
- Adaptable; learns and implements quickly