FUTURES EGALITARIAN ETHICAL LIBERAL LEADERS (FEELL)

About the Company

Backed by the former and current leadership of institutions like the United Nations Development Program, Google, Morgan Stanley, Goldman Sachs, Oxford University, Citigroup & World Bank amongst others, Futures Egalitarian Ethical Liberal Leaders (FEELL) is revolutionising early leadership education in India.

From #Metoo movement, police brutality & identity based lynchings to climate inaction and income inequality, socio-economic crises across the last few years have exposed the sorry state of leadership across industries. We are a social enterprise that has brought together leaders & change-makers across 5 continents to build a new generation of leaders who prioritise egalitarian, ethical & liberal values and put people over profit.

Current leadership education that has typically been geared towards executives & professionals in their mid 30s has failed. Our mission is to intervene at an early age in high school where we can imbibe empathy into our future leaders while creating an urge within them to solve community problems.

We do this through our 2 programs-

FEELL Fellowship : A global coalition of leaders from 21 different industries consisting of senior leadership of the worlds largest corporations, non-profits, governments and universities have come together to educate, mentor & guide the next generation of leaders through the FEELL Fellowship. The Fellowship is India's first leadership program providing young future leaders (aged 15-18) with a deeper understanding of the leadership challenges of social, economic & climate inequalities while equipping them with the industry & people skills required to execute change across industries in the 21st century.

We use the revenue we raise from our FEELL fellowship to fund our Savitribai-FEELL Scholarship program. Working with Teach for India & Claylab, our program enrolls girls from TFI classrooms post the 10th grade into a 30 month holistic educational ecosystem that completely funds their future education and gives them access to the same industry experiences, skill building sessions and international network of leaders & mentors that our fellows have access to, free of cost.

Upcoming Programs

FEELL Climate Project:

An 8 week intensive summer program that combines policy field work with in class learning in the climate sector. Students will be working on live field projects helping state governments implement climate policies during the week and will attend in class learning through lectures delivered by leading climate activists from across the world over the weekend, with the program culminating in a unique policy research article.

FEELL Gender Project:

India's first education program for young changemakers(aged 15-18) exploring the issues of gender discrimination by working on a live project with the Govt of Maharashtra focused on women upliftment. The program will also cover field experiences that uncover the discrimination faced by sex workers, people with alternate gender identities, sexualities & the LGBTQ community. Like each of our programs on-ground learning is supplemented by in class learning through a curriculum delivered by the world's foremost gender & LGBTQIA+ activists and policymakers.

Designation- Director of Strategic Communications & Media Relations (Working at the Founders Office)
Location- Mumbai
Nature- Full Time in-office position
CTC- 5-8 LPA
No. of Positions Available- 1

About the Role:

The Director of Strategic Comms & Media relations will lead the development of strategic communications solutions and focus on elevating the public profile of the company. Online efforts would include managing the social media platforms of the company including content creation, digital campaigns & strategy. Offline efforts include supporting the company brand messaging and managing media relations & strategy.

Key Responsibilities Include:

- Design, build, maintain our social media presence and come up with campaigns targeted towards growing the reach of our brand & customer acquisition across Instagram, Facebook, Linkedin & Youtube.
- Help develop a brand voice & identity and communicate that identity across platforms.
- Suggesting solutions to boost web presence; keeping up-to-date with our audience's preferences and building strong client relationships through social media interaction.
- Creating engaging content for all of our social media platforms.
- To serve as chief media strategist and company spokesperson; responsible for identifying and building relationships with new and existing partners, reporters, producers and schools to increase media coverage.
- Drive editorial story planning, writing and pitching to both national & international press, to ensure the coverage of the business's/product's programs, events, public announcements, among other projects.
- Proactively seek and manage strategic executive visibility opportunities for the organization.

- Plan, prepare, and distribute original promotional content such as articles, news and press releases, email, blog and social media posts, and other updates on behalf of the organization.
- Lead day-to-day communications activities inclusive media budgeting, planning, and auditing on top of providing branding counsel to marketing teams.

Requirements/Qualifications:

- Pursuing an undergraduate/postgraduate degree in a related field and/or work experience in a related field.
- Highly creative with experience in identifying target audiences and devising digital campaigns that engage, inform and motivate.
- Experience producing digital content and managing social accounts for a small to medium sized organisation is preferred
- Excellent written and verbal communication skills in English.
- Strong promotional, negotiation skills & people skills.
- Familiarity with social media marketing, Canva /Adobe photoshop or other editing software's is a bonus.

Benefits:

- Inspite of being a startup, we dont believe in ‘start-up culture’. 15 hr work days & 80 hr work weeks are counterproductive. Research shows that they hinder performance & productivity. We believe that all of our employees should have a healthy work-life balance and should be excited to work every morning.
- Our organisation is full of young people who are passionate about bringing in new perspectives and ideas while delivering real social impact. Expect a work environment of like minded young people with strong opinions and a passion for social change.
- The nature of the role will enable you to interact and network with industry, academic and youth leaders from all around the world and build networks that could be vital to your career growth.
- Work directly with the founders and contribute to the growth of an impactful organisation from the ground up with your ideas and vision.
- A work culture that prioritizes ethics and liberal values ensuring equal opportunities irrespective of gender, caste, religion, race, sexuality or socio-economic background. A workplace where everyone can be themselves without any fear of judgement.
- Free Coffee!
