Client Success Associate

Mentora Institute is helping organizations develop a new generation of leaders who maximize their Outer Impact in today's transformative time through ever-deepening Inner Mastery. We also have a foundation (NGO) arm of our work - mentora.foundation where we work to create changemakers of the future to advance humanity and the world to their full potential.

We're looking for a Client Success Associate. You will work as part of our Gurugram-based Client Success team to manage and execute Mentora's consulting and training programs for our clients. These clients are typically major global businesses, like Accenture, Ericsson, CHANEL, Lululemon, New York Times, and more. Working closely with various teams like the client development, faculty and curriculum teams you will successfully deliver our programs to our clients.

About the role

- Location: India (preference Delhi NCR areas but not a requirement)
- Full-time

As a Client Success Associate, you'll be responsible for:

- Executing program workflows. These include setting up course modules, the orientation of new participants, ongoing program communication between Mentora and participants, setting up and facilitating live webinars with clients and participants.

- Maintaining trackers and analyzing data points to create summary participation reports and trends analysis for client and senior Mentora management team.

- Following the end-of-program processes to bring client programs to closure.

- Finding ways to continually improve the client experience.

- Leveraging client intelligence to identify promising opportunities for new client development and growing client adoption.

About you

You'll thrive as a Client Success Associate if you:

- Have excellent written and verbal English communication skills for communicating with a global audience

- Have a keen interest in incorporating feedback for continuous self-growth

- Meet deadlines through your high self-management abilities in planning your daily work while incorporating rest and rejuvenation to lead a balanced life

- Bring strong attention to detail skills to produce high-quality deliverables and smoothly conduct events like client webinars and workshops (as the resume post-covid)

- Can work calmly under tight deadlines in a dynamic global environment

- Can smoothly shift gears from one project to another in a short timespan ie. handle two to three projects each running on a different timeline

- Enjoy interacting with people

  AND

- Have a bachelor/master's degree
- Have some training in project management (nice to have)

About Mentora

Mentora Institute is helping organizations develop a new generation of leaders who maximize their Outer Impact in today's transformative time through ever-deepening Inner Mastery. The Institute was founded in 2010 by Columbia Business School Professor Hitendra Wadhwa. Mentora's Leadership Operating System (LEOS) draws on the latest breakthroughs in science and technology to offer an agile, authentic, and attainable pathway for leadership development. LEOS is being used by leading organizations including Accenture, Ericsson, Kraft Heinz and SAP to unlock the full potential in their people, create a purpose-driven culture, foster inclusion and belonging, and build high-performing teams.

Here is what our clients are saying about their work with us.

"When we started looking for partners, we didn't want something off the shelf. We wanted an organization that was going to get to know Kraft Heinz and really help us figure out how to grow in that journey of building leadership capability. It's very rare that you can find training that's dynamic and exciting but just as hard-hitting on results and science, that really matched with the Kraft Heinz culture. Mentora has been a wonderful fit for us."

— Stacey Johnson, Head of Leadership & Culture at Kraft Heinz

"This training on LEOS has been one of the most impactful things for me to grow as a person and a leader."

— A participant from National Geographic
