Inviting applications for Fellow, Communications
The Antara Foundation

THE FELLOWSHIP

Ever read reports of India's abject health outcomes, wishing you could do something about it?
Ever wanted to understand the realities in which public health services are delivered?
Ever wanted to be part of a cohort of entrepreneurial thinkers passionate about social impact?

The Antara Foundation Fellowship is a grassroots experiential learning program designed for budding entrepreneurs or those looking for career enhancement, higher education, refining professional competencies or even just exploring the development sector landscape. The Fellows work closely with team members to support them on various work streams such as program design, field implementation, program monitoring, government relations and communications. Based on the requirement, the Fellows may be placed in rural program locations, or the organisation's Delhi office.

The Fellowship is also a pathway to future employment with us. Multiple fellows have accepted full-time roles. Fellows have also gone on to pursue higher education from prestigious global universities. Read more about the Fellowship at antarafoundation.org/the-fellowship

ABOUT THE ORGANISATION

The Antara Foundation (TAF) is a public health non-profit with a vision to ensure that every mother and each child has an equal start to a healthy life. TAF aims to help change some of India's worst health outcomes and prevent needless deaths of mothers and children across villages. The focus is on designing and implementing innovations to achieve delivery at scale. TAF works in partnership with various State governments, with its programs running across Chhattisgarh, Madhya Pradesh and Rajasthan.

TAF was founded by Ashok Alexander, former director at McKinsey & Company and India country director of the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation (BMGF). The team comprises a diverse set of individuals with backgrounds such as management consulting, public health, journalism, academia, development and others. For more information, visit antarafoundation.org

CURRENT REQUIREMENT

Our current requirement is for a Fellow who would support the organisation's communications efforts. The Fellow will be placed at our program location in one of TAF's focus districts in Madhya Pradesh.

The Fellow will join at an important juncture for the organisation. As TAF expands its innovations to different geographies in India, there is a strong need to capture and share our work with different audiences (e.g., donors, government, public health partners). This is important for three reasons – establish TAF as a credible and technically strong organization in the sector, garner funds to support further expansion and scale-up, and to inform the broader sector and government. The Fellow will leverage his or her experience in one or more creative arts such as writing, filmmaking and storytelling, to develop impactful material to showcase and highlight the organisation's efforts. While supporting the overall communications team, the Fellow will act as the team's key representative in the field.

RESPONSIBILITIES

- Collect and collate field information (e.g., images/clips, anecdotes, testimonials, interviews)
- Synthesise field information into different formats (e.g., write-ups, short films, slides)
- Prepare field stories and case studies (e.g., intervention progress, impact stories)
- Work on creative ways to broadcast field stories (e.g., blogs, articles, online campaigns)
- Support the team in managing social media content (e.g., regular field updates, curated visual posts)
- Support the team with field content across communications material (e.g., annual reports, newsletters, progress reports)

ROLE REQUIREMENTS

- Graduate; 0-3 years' experience
- Individuals with background in creative arts such as writing, photography, videography, filmmaking and other relevant domains will be given preference
- Strong communication skills – oral and written
- Demonstrated ability to work independently and in a team environment
- Strong values of humility, integrity and desire to learn

OTHER DETAILS

- A minimum commitment of 12-18 months is required
- Fellows will receive a competitive stipend
- Location: One of TAF's district offices in Madhya Pradesh (district to be finalized as per requirement)
- This is a fully field-based role and requires the person to regularly travel from the district headquarters to intervention villages (daily field commute is managed by the organization through trusted car vendors)
