Rejuvenating Communities & Ecosystems

Designation	Content Strategist
Division / Department	Communications
No of Positions	1
Work experience	2+ years in communication roles. Development sector experience will be a plus.
Location	Pune
Qualifications	Graduate or masters in any field but communications, journalism, marketing, or related field candidates will be preferred.
(Specialization with Essential criteria Required)	• You have excellent written and verbal skills in English • You have the proven ability to write clear, concise, and compelling text for web, print and social media platforms • You have the proven ability to ideate and create content across various media types including blogs, videos, social media, email, press releases etc. • You have the ability to develop content consistent with the WOTR brand voice, style, and tone • You have an entrepreneurial mindset: You work proactively, take calculated risks, think independently, and are quick to make decisions • You are strong in the people quadrant with well-developed interpersonal and relationship building skills • You are curious - about the development sector, environment & sustainability related issues • You really want to make India better and bring change to the millions of rural people living in poverty. • You have strong organizational skills, project management and reporting and analytics skills with a focus on excellence and accuracy
Job Description	• You will report directly to the Head of Communications and will be responsible for ideating and executing web-based and print communications. • You will be responsible for boosting existing communication initiatives, managing the website, campaigns on social media, annual report, monthly newsletter, and the quarterly magazine • You will proactively increase coverage and understanding of WOTR's work in India and globally through content on multiple communication channels • You will build relationships with the media and pitch apt stories/create Press releases/ draft opinion pieces to ensure that our impact and narrative is captured.

	• You will collect, organize, and create relevant news and case-studies, resources, and interviews to be used for marketing, fundraising and media purposes. • You will work with the Managing Trustee / Executive Director and perform additional tasks to support the effective operation of a non-profit organization as needed. • You will also coordinate with internal and external vendors to manage the work and achieve the required deliverables.