Program Officer at The Antara Foundation

At the Antara Foundation (TAF), we work to strengthen the last-mile delivery of public health solutions. Our core belief is that maternal and child health depends on access to timely and quality care. We work with and through the government system, helping build the capacity of frontline health workers, using data for better implementation and decision-making, and mobilizing communities to seek better health outcomes. Our solutions are designed to work at scale, are sustainable, and are simple to implement on the ground.

We are a young, energetic, and passionate team, working across 8 districts, 39 blocks, 5,700 villages, with 8,800 FLWs, and reaching 379,000 women and 650,000 children in central India. Over the next few years, we see ourselves spreading across multiple locations in India to implement our solutions and to create an impact at scale.

The Program Officer (PO) at TAF will lead program implementation across a block or given geography. This includes program implementation, monitoring impact, and stakeholder management. It is an ideal fit for candidates who prefer a fast-paced, impact-driven work environment with opportunities to lead a dynamic team and help solve some of the toughest public health challenges.

- Develop trust and bonds with frontline workers and the community to ensure quality delivery and sustainability of the program
- Contribute to overall organizational needs and vision outside the field and collaborate with team members from different locations/ departments
- Contribute to overall organizational needs and vision outside the field (e.g., Donor development, monitoring & evaluation, among others) and collaborate with team members from different locations/ departments

Skills:

- Strategic and analytical thinking
- Creativity

- Clear written and oral communication
- Fast learning
- Exceptional interpersonal skills
- Ability to work well in a multi-disciplinary team environment, good team player
- Excellent project management

Why should you join the Antara Foundation?

The Antara Foundation is the ideal organization for budding leaders and passionate contributors

The PO role is an opportunity for those who seek a challenge. This unique experience blends hands-on practice of problem-solving and innovation with regular mentoring by industry veterans. You will learn the ability to innovate, own projects and outcomes, and build critical skills. You will also learn to work in a grassroots context, working with the last-mile providers of public health in some of India's most remote regions, building for yourself, a perspective of development challenges and solutions from the ground up in a safe, supportive environment.
At TAF, our vision is to be the best place to work across all industries. Our culture and value system are at the core of this vision. We believe in investing in our teams and providing everyone with opportunities for growth.

Who are we looking for?

- Program officers who are passionate, bubbling over with ideas, strategic in approach, hard-nosed with data and enthusiastic to learn.
- We seek someone with 2-5 years of work experience, in other development organizations, corporate organizations, or management consulting. This person should be adept in handling large volumes of data, managing diverse stakeholders, and leading initiatives on their own.
- Will be responsible for running our program end-to-end in 1 block (covering 150-200 villages, pop: >1.5 lakhs). They will be the leader of their area and expected to work under the principle of 'freedom with responsibility'.
- We look for someone who will fit in our culture and is passionate to play important role in shaping Antara's future, and above all excited at the prospect of working for a larger cause and saving tens of thousands of lives.
