About the University of Chicago Center in Delhi

Opened in 2014, the University of Chicago Center in Delhi is the hub of research, partnerships and outreach to India and provides a base for dialogue among scholars from the University, across India and around the world. It builds on a rich history of intellectual collaboration between Chicago and India. The Center is designed to serve scholars at all levels, and across all disciplines. It serves as a convening space for faculty and students, a gathering place for alumni, and a nucleus for rekindling old relationships and forging of new ones. It also provides opportunities for interaction with the University of Chicago as well as the University's other global affiliates located in Hong Kong, Beijing, Paris and London. Programming at the center is focused on three core areas: Science, Energy, Medicine, and Public Health; Business, Economics, and Policy; and Culture, Society, Law, and the Arts. Through academic and public programs, and outreach and collaboration, scholars use the Center to address scientific, political, social, and cultural issues that are important to India and the world.
