Business Analyst Programme – Egon Zehnder, India

Overview

Business Analysts are paired with 1-2 Partners at the Firm, supporting them in critical client and non-client work. Most Business Analysts are in their role for 3 years, after which they move on to other roles within or outside the Firm.

Essential Duties and Responsibilities:

During your tenure as a Business Analyst at Egon Zehnder, you will:

- Develop a holistic understanding of leadership - its importance, best practices, latest thought leadership, etc. Gain an understanding of how businesses work - who the stakeholders are, how decisions are made, what governance means, etc.
- Get exposure on how top CEOs and Boards think about their organizations, understand the talent challenges that businesses face, and help consultants develop impactful solutions based on the Firm's expertise and best practices.
- Develop custom solutions (e.g., working through succession planning, Board building, leadership assessment and development, and team effectiveness solutions) and establish best practices for new/unique client requirements that are coming up with increasing frequency.
- Gain understanding of the problems and opportunities facing a particular sector through business development and strategy planning for different industry practice groups or functional practices.
- Lead thought leadership initiatives for the Firm, such as events with industry leaders and global research studies on pertinent topics.
- Support consultants in building competence in the different services the Firm provides.
- Get exposure to the Firm internally- for e.g., building the India team and culture, involvement in Firm's internal activities and events.

Ideal Candidate:

The best candidates will have a strong academic record, high drive, and a history of leading groups of people in school and college. We don't need work experience necessarily, although that will be a plus. Past candidates have had a master's degree from the world's most competitive institutions, though we are very happy to interview candidates with a strong Bachelors' only degree.

About the Firm:

Egon Zehnder (website) is the world's preeminent leadership advisory Firm, which inspires leaders to navigate complex questions with human answers. As one of the largest and most successful Consulting Firms globally; we focus on Executive Search, Leadership Assessment and Development, and Board Consulting.

Founded in 1964, it has a unique private partnership model, operating as a single entity and allowing the Firm to have a truly global reach.

As leading in today's dynamic world poses more questions and unknowns with higher stakes than ever before, we help our clients get – and stay – ready to take on the leadership challenges that they face.
