Analyst / Senior Analyst

(Roles open across different Industry Practice Groups)

Job Purpose

As a core member of the Expert track, you will partner with local, regional and global colleagues on executive searches and leadership advisory work across a particular sector such as Financial Services, Technology & Communications, Industrials, Consumer, Healthcare & Lifesciences.

Focusing exclusively at the most senior levels, we offer comprehensive leadership solutions for individuals, teams and organizations. At Egon Zehnder, we have spent more than 50 years advising clients on chief executive leadership succession, recruitment, and professional development all over the world.

Your work will allow you to have a bird's eye view into the world of leadership and effective organisations—what transformative leadership looks like, how effective leaders adapt their companies to global challenges and how we help unlock and harness leadership potential.

Essential Duties and Responsibilities:

- Partner with fellow colleagues on projects, pitch preparation, business development and knowledge management
- Recommend approach and develop target company lists through market research
- Identify, calibrate and prioritize potential candidates through internal firm network, external resources and market outreach
- Manage the project team throughout the search processes to drive strategy and client solutions
- Develop resourceful ways to gather insights on the industry and the talent pool by building own network (internal or external) and participation in industry forums
- Be a thought partner and advise client teams on segment market and institutional knowledge, industry and talent trends for strategic pitches and assignments

Preferred Qualifications:

- Prior 3+ years of experience in a management consulting/ research firm or executive search with strong understanding of technology or financial services sector is preferred.
- Superior project management abilities and initiative to lead assignments with minimal guidance
- Highly results-oriented and able to work well with team members across the firm
- Highly-motivated problem-solvers who possess intellectual curiosity, a readiness to tackle challenges and qualitative analytical skills

About the Firm:

Egon Zehnder (website) is the world's preeminent leadership advisory Firm, which inspires leaders to navigate complex questions with human answers. As one of the largest and most successful Consulting Firms globally; we focus on Executive Search, Leadership Assessment and Development, and Board Consulting.

Founded in 1964, it has a unique private partnership model, operating as a single entity and allowing the Firm to have a truly global reach.

As leading in today's dynamic world poses more questions and unknowns with higher stakes than ever before, we help our clients get – and stay – ready to take on the leadership challenges that they face.
