A person we need, to customers urgently get and better our messaging make

You'd get it.

About Impactis:

Impactis is making scholarship-giving feel good. And for a reason.

A fourth of humanity is young and will join the workforce in next 15 years, and nearly 90% will come from under-privileged backgrounds or the developing world. They need better alternatives to loans for an equal chance at success in life.

Scholarships can provide one such alternative. There's now an enormous and growing pool of over 100 million a uent individuals but they still don't have an easy way to create scholarships - whether in memory of a loved one, in gratitude of their good fortune or out of a sense of mission.

That's where Impactis steps in. We're crafting a better way to create named scholarships, improve involvement of friends, family & others to create a shared experience, find deserving students and manage all the logistics involved.

Most of all, we're making the ability to engage on scholar-progress a joy. Scholars "post" updates on our platform and connect with an extended Impactis community of scholarship-givers, professionals and scholars for networking and career success. Our "Linkedin for students & supporters" will ensure more people can unwind in a more meaningful and energizing way, centring the focus away from "charity" to "personal gratification" experienced in spotting and developing talent.

Impactis is intersecting technology and psychology to create something unique at scale. We're young (seed-stage young) and looking for builders to join the ride!

Let's just say we've got the pieces and need people to put it together "coherently", for our customers and the world.
