PATHWAYS SCHOOL
Learn · Work · Play · Think · LIVE
GURGAON

IB CONTINUUM
CONTINUUM DE L'IB
CONTINUO DEL IB

Job Description.

Teacher

Position	:	Teacher
Salary	:	50-65 K per month (No salary bar for deserving candidates)
Qualifications	:	Any Graduate
Benefits	:	Transport, meals, PF, Gratuity
Musto have	:	Good Communication Skills and passion for teaching.
Tentative Start Date	:	July 2024
Location	:	Pathways School Gurgaon, Baliawas Gurgaon Faridabad road, Gurgaon

All teachers are responsible through their subject area Coordinator or Head of Department as applicable, to the Principal of the section of the school to which they are attached. All academic staff are required to work a minimum of 190 contact days with students and 210 days overall to include workshops, trainings, parent-teacher meetings and school meetings. You may be required to work on some Saturdays as per the School Calendar and unavoidable adjustments made, if any.

Responsibilities :–

Academic

- To teach their subject area for a minimum of 1120 minute periods per week during the academic session.
- To contribute in the teaching of overall developmental areas including but not restricted to Theory of Knowledge, CAS, Clubs and Activities.
- Follow and contribute to the syllabi and schemes of work in accordance with the school's curriculum policies.
- Plan lessons according to the system followed by the school and subject area and deliver the lessons so planned to the students.

- Liaise, plan special work and interact with the Special Education teacher or Counsellor for the well-being of differently abled students.
- Submit all schemes of work, lesson plans and any other material to the relevant Head of Department, Subject Coordinator or Principal according to the systems laid down by the school.
- Regularly assess and mark students' work following the guidelines of the school's assessment policy.
- Manage his or her classroom regarding developing an interesting, stimulating and appropriate working environment for the students and set and maintain standards of student behaviour that enhance the learning that takes place.
- Mount and display students work and other appropriate material on the classroom and atrium display boards.
- Set and mark examinations and other formal assessments in consultation with Head of Department, subject Coordinators or Section Principal as appropriate.
- Maintain effective records of student attendance, work covered and of student progress regularly.
- Provide detailed semester reports on all students in his/ her classes at the end of each semester.
- Prepare and use resources to supplement textbooks and other formal materials including downloading relevant material from the internet and maintaining a record of useful website references.
- Organize subject based guest speakers to the campus and off campus visits to relevant places of interest or events.
- Liaise with other members of staff to establish cross curricular links and work practices.
- Attend department meetings and participate in periodic curriculum and syllabus review.
- Maintain familiarity with developments in his/her subject area and in pedagogy through research, reading and workshops.

Pastoral Care

- Take on the responsibility of a Form group as Form Tutor.
- Monitor students both inside and outside the classroom to ensure that they follow the school rules.
- Be available for any student seeking your guidance or help.
- Give additional academic support to students when necessary.
- Liaise with parents both formally and informally.

General

- Pursue the aims, philosophy and policies defined in the school handbooks.
- Prepare assemblies and encourage standards of presentation.
- Enforce school rules including participation in the school disciplinary system and doing your assigned break, mealtimes, prep and other duties with commitment.
- Play an active part in the school House system, community service programme and all other activities of the school.
- Cover as required for absent colleagues.
- Undertake any task the principal may reasonably identify in time of need.

Role of the Form Tutor

- Most members of the academic staff will also have the added responsibility of being a form tutor.
- The tutor system is central to the academic monitoring and pastoral care of all pathways students in the middle and secondary schools.
- The tutor is the first point of contact for both the student and his or her parent for information concerning academic progress and wellbeing or for solving problems that might arise in the student's life.
- The tutor should also celebrate the student's successes and communicate these to the parent. It is important that the tutor get to know all his/her tutees well to help and guide them.
- Opportunities to meet the group in structured time happen daily at registration and during tutor periods, at community service and during PSHE lessons.
- Tutors should also arrange to meet their tutees individually at least once a month.It is the responsibility of each tutor to ensure that s/he has up to date information about each of his/her tutees. This must include Parents names and contacts Notes on previous academic and behavioural performance SEN or EAL needs. Any special health issues. Subjects Activities House Special interests and successes All this information should be recorded and kept in a file, one for each tutee and updated as required.
- You are required to keep the daily attendance record in the prescribed register. If a student is absent for more than two days without intimation call the parent and report to the respective School Principal.

- You are also required to write tutor comments for the school reports twice a year and compile the reports for your tutees. At the Parent /Teacher Open Day you need to be prepared with all the information you have collected regarding the progress in all aspects of your tutee's life at Pathways.
- Your role is to act as a friend, philosopher and guide to your tutees.
- You are responsible for the performance and growth of every tutee physically, emotionally, educationally, spiritually, and socially.
- You are the first point of contact with the parents and the school expects you to be proactive in this regard.
- Send informal monthly reports to parents outlining the tutees performance both positive and negative. Where there are problems you need to mention what the school is doing to solve the problem.
- Check the tutees diaries daily for liaison with other teachers regarding prep and other academic matters.
- Consult regularly with your tutees' house parents as they interact with the students in a totally different way.
- You will learn about another side of your tutees.
- Find out if your tutee needs any extra help in EAL, SEN or subject area and arrange the same.
- Ensure tutees have all the required texts and stationery, uniforms and other receivables.
- Accompany your group on the class trip week activity.
- Deliver the PSHE lesson each week under the guidance of the PSHE coordinator.
- Prepare suitable activities for the tutor period; these may include discussions on topics of interest to the group, problem solving, resolving issues, checking books and equipment, preparing assemblies and any other.
- Escort and sit with your group at the assembly to ensure good behaviour.
- Check the appearance of your tutees every morning to see that they are wearing the uniform correctly and are neatly turned out and complying with school rules.
- Spend time with your tutees out of structured time if you can, invite them for a group picnic or just talk to them in the evening perhaps. Get to know them so that they see you as someone to share things with.

In addition to the above, your responsibilities include:

•Teaching all students assigned to you.

•Prepare regular reports for Form Tutor and for your own records regarding progress of pupils.

•Interact with subject teachers to assist both the students and teachers to work smoothly together.

•And any other assignment that may be given to you by coordinator or principal.

Prep duty

The School Management will require you to perform additional responsibilities from time to time. These would include responsibilities of form tutor, trip coordinator, subject coordinator, house coordinator, coordination of club activities, timetable, community service, website management, school magazine and/or newsletter. The school would ensure that your timetable is so adjusted that you have adequate time to carry out these duties which are within the scope of this contract. This list is inclusive but not exhaustive.

And generally, to do all acts commensurate to the post offered.

The elements contained in this description are subject to amendment, after consultation, as the needs of the school change.