Role	Associate - Product Management and Product growth and strategy
Location	Delhi
About the Role	The incumbent will own a Product/ Service line from QAI / QGlue's suite of offerings and will be expected to manage the Product/Service line leading to customer satisfaction, growth and innovation. Broadly the responsibilities will include: - Defining and implementing the marketing strategy, including but not limited to digital marketing. - Undertaking creative marketing initiatives for the product/ service line(s). - Analysing customer feedback, customer needs and competitor analysis to enhance the offerings. - Identifying potential partner relationships to enable access and growth. - lead generation through targeted campaigns to expand the customer base and drive revenue growth. - Working with the business development team for proposals/ presentations to clients as required. - Tracking and reporting product/ service lines revenue forecasts to management. - Ensuring smooth operations for the product/ service line(s)
Skills required	You are a perfect fit if - you are self-driven, ambitious and have a go-getter attitude. - Global cultural sensitivity and exposure will be an added advantage
CTC	The total compensation offered will be 9 lacs, comprising a fixed CTC of 7 lacs and a performance-linked CTC of 2 lacs.
About QAI	QAI is a global consulting and workforce development organization addressing the 'Operational Excellence' and capability development needs of tech, information technology, telecom, BFSI and other service organizations having a suite of offerings built over 30 years since inception, with clients in 30 Countries. QAI has undertaken 700 customer journeys over the last 25 years including clients such as Boeing, Accenture, Singapore Telecom and Huawei to name a few. QAI operates from its offices in India, the US, Singapore, and China. QAI Global Services (QGS), the consulting division of QAI, addresses Operational Excellence by helping organizations achieve Operational Excellence through the deployment of best practices and processes in areas of Process Management, Agile, DevOps, Design Thinking, Innovation Management, and others. Website: http://www.qaiglobalservices.com/ QAI Global Institute (QGI) is the workforce development division of QAI and engages with individuals inside organizations and with professional communities. The Institute, through learning design, training delivery, competency assessments, development, and certifications enables career growth and equips individuals to help realize organizational goals. Website: http://www.qaiglobalinstitute.com/

The Innovation Venture of QAI:
QGLUE –promoted by QAI (a 30-year-old transnational consulting organization), QGLUE brings a unique design-led innovation, and a human-centered approach to building products, services, and businesses in today's 'experience economy'—making future living better with happier people.
QGLUE's service design, design research practice delivers solutions for customers worldwide
Website: http://www.q-glue.com