toddle

Job Description:

Product Communications Specialist

About Toddle

At Toddle, we are on a mission to help schools around the world deliver better learning. We are a team of 2x founders – before founding Toddle, we set up a network of preschools and schools in India. We continue to operate these preschools and schools as it gives us a unique vantage point into the challenges faced by schools.

Our belief is that real impact in education can only be achieved by improving schools. That's because children spend more than 80% of their learning time in school and schools are here to stay as schools are not just about teaching & learning, they also play a pivotal social role in our lives. So while most Edtech companies are trying to solve for education by working outside the school system, we think that the focus needs to be on taking our schools to the next level.

Toddle is a collaboration platform for teaching teams – we say that Toddle is to teaching, what Figma is to design. In its current version, Toddle empowers teachers to work together and better across all stages of the teaching-learning process – right from curriculum planning and assessments to progress-tracking and family communication.

Here are some key facts about us:

1. Currently used by over 1,500 schools and 1 million+ users from 100+ countries
2. Global revenue distribution:
   40% from the Americas
   30% from EMEA
   30% from APAC
3. Net Revenue Retention (NRR) > 115%
4. Net Promoter Score (NPS) > 70
5. Annual churn rate < 3%
6. Inbound-led go-to-market strategy fueled by positive word of mouth

We love solving for

1. Creating delightful experiences that help teaching teams collaborate better & be more effective
2. Building tools that help teachers personalise learning for their students
3. Helping teachers around the world connect with each other meaningfully

We are at a series A stage right now, growing fast in the SAAS Ed-tech space, and have been funded by Sequoia, Matrix, Beenext, and Better Capital among others.

Here's what you'll be doing

We are looking for a driven Product Communications Specialist with relevant experience in communications and product understanding, and a bent towards bettering user experience.

You will work towards building the voice of the Product and ensure that different parts of the product speak to each other. Your aim would be to bridge the gap between the lens with with the product has been built and the way that the users experience the product. This would require you to be keen to enhance your product understanding, deepen your knowledge in the domain and translate that understanding to the user effectively. Working in a collaborative and team-oriented environment, you will support product communications, product launches, build a new part of the product that involves communicating this know-how and make suggestions for improvements.

Your key responsibilities will include:

- Building the internal architecture for product knowledge
- Writing articles and recording videos maintaining the product voice and keeping the user perspective in mind
- Iterating on existing product features and suggesting improvements
- Ensuring that all the product resources created match the design language and quality of the product

Is this someone that looks like you?

- Experience: Bachelors/Masters degree with relevant of experience
- Analytical, articulate, excited to process existing design language and innovate
- Product design knowledge/experience is a plus
- Strong attention to detail and structured thinking.
- High sense of accountability & ownership.
- We deeply value building the right culture at Toddle, and these are a few things that we look for in each hire - Coach-ability, Curiosity, Ownership, Hustle and Humility
- Location: Remote (or you can work out of Bangalore when we resume office)

Excited about the role?

Here are a few more benefits:

1. Flexibility at work
    - Work from anywhere – home, co-working space, cafe or even the hills
    - Block “no-meeting hours” to enable uninterrupted focused work

2. Exposure to diverse learning opportunities
    - Work across different projects & teams to develop skills outside of your core expertise
    - Access to a small budget towards learning (e.g. books, online courses, substacks)
3. Industry best leave policy

    We trust you fully on your commitment to our mission and your judgment on planning your time and taking leaves:
    - No cap on the number of sick or casual leaves
    - Special paid leaves for childbirth, wedding etc.
    - And if in any circumstance you feel burnt out – there is a little something for this too!
4. No bell curve performance evaluations

    We put in a lot of work to hire the best, and therefore we don't expect anyone to deliver less than the best!
5. And yes, a super fun and diverse group of folks to collaborate and grow with

Still with us? Here's the process:

1. Shortlisting:
    - Apply through Campus
    - We'll check out your application and assess it for a fit
    - If shortlisted, you will hear from us within 1-2 days of the submission
2. Once shortlisted, we usually do about 2-3 rounds of interviews, a written assignment, and deep reference checks.
3. We value everyone's time hence we make it a point to communicate proactively at all stages of your application. You can always reach out to us for any questions.